Leicester band to perform at Burnt Mill after pupils win Absolute Radio contest

THE LYRICS

The lyrics sung by Burnt Mill students Laura, Georgia, Alfie and Paige as part of the Absolute Radio competition:

We're Burnt Mill Academy,
We are not the enemy,
Wanna do good by our community
Now they've lost their music venue
Home to the creative kids
Where music and the arts mix
Lost to a housing development
We just need some Absolute investment
Ahhhhh Christian we want you
Ahhhhh Christian we need you
Harlow is the town we love,
The past few years have been pretty rough
With a killing making national news
The finger pointed at the youths
But with venues and youth clubs closing down
The trouble starts to spread around
So help us keep it off our streets. With bands on the stage in a place to meet

School will transform into rock academy for live Kasabian show

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

ROCK band Kasabian will play at Burnt Mill Academy after the school won a quirky Absolute Radio competition this week.

For winning the BrekFest contest on Monday, the secondary in First Avenue, Harlow, will also receive a makeover from Wickes and Christian O'Connell will present the station's breakfast show there.

The Leicester rockers, known for their hits Fire and Underdog, will perform live in the school hall as part of the show's broadcast.

To win the competition, four students sang a parody of the Kasabian song Club Foot, with lyrics changed to convince O'Connell to choose the school.

Competition entrant Adam Smith, media officer of the Burnt Mill Academy Trust, said students are excited to get to see the band play some time in the summer term.

Nuts

He said: "It's nuts. I have not said too much about it as I did not want to get everyone's hopes up but we have only gone and won it."

"I explained the town had lost its music venue [in The Square] and I would like to replicate some of that in the school hall. I got a phone call saying we had been shortlisted.

"[For the final] we had to cover a Kasabian song. We could choose any song and we went for a classic."

In January Harlow's best-known music venue The Square, in Fourth Avenue, closed but Mr Smith hopes Burnt Mill's hall can continue its legacy.

Kasabian will be among the first people to perform in the school's modified hall.

Mr Smith said: "Someone alerted me to the competition [BrekFest] which they have been running for a few years and last year they did it in someone's garden, but this time they wanted to open it to venues.

"I put a pitch together. There have been talks about us using Burnt Mill school hall as a centre for something to happen after The Square closed.

"There were close links between the two (Mr Smith having worked for both).

"If we can open the space, there is no reason why it should not be a community venue.

"The school has purchased the PA and lighting equipment from The Square and that was being installed over Easter."

Kasabian are coming to Harlow

GENERAL ELECTION

'Time to break the cycle of young voter apathy'

Harlow Star reporter Conor Gogarty says it is vital young people vote

The Star is launching its #MyVote campaign today, aimed at urging more young people to go to the ballot boxes for the general election on June 8.

Here, the newsroom's youngest reporter, Conor Gogarty, explains why he feels it's now more vital than ever for the young to make their voices heard.

AS A 23-year-old man, I don't struggle to think of things about Britain which I would like to see change.

Young people haven't always benefited from policies introduced in recent years, not least last year's decision to restrict the National Living Wage to those older than 24.

The reductions in housing benefits for 18 to 21-year-olds has only made things harder for the young, most of whom can expect to become a homeowner by approximately 2674.

There have been funding cuts for disabled students in higher education, and who doesn't remember Nick Clegg's infamous backtrack on his pledge to block a rise in tuition

HOW TO REGISTER TO VOTE

To vote in the election you must be registered, or face being turned away from the polling station.

Once you have registered, the local voter registration office will send out polling cards to inform you of the polling station you need to attend on June 8 and what your voter number is.

The process of registering is very simple and all online, but must be done before the deadline of May 22.

There is a separate deadline for those wishing to vote via a postal ballot, but they must also be registered in the normal manner before the regular deadline.

The deadline for voter registration is May 22. To register before the deadline, visit www.gov.uk/register-to-vote fees? Some might argue that in the midst of all this, young people should be falling over each other to cast their ballots in favour of the candidates they believe can bring about a change.

Anyone wanting to vote by post can also download the required form, that needs to be returned by 5pm on Tuesday, May 23, from the same website.

But equally, it is not hard to see why broken promises like Clegg's might have disenfranchised young people from politics.

Voter turnouts at recent elections seem to show this is what has happened, with the 75.4 per cent of 18 to 24s who voted in 1992 dropping to 44.3 per cent by 2015.

The same age group was better represented in the EU referendum last year at 64 per cent – only 8 per cent below the national average.

Granted, those were more encouraging figures. But given that 75 per cent of young people wanted to remain in the EU according to YouGov, if a higher proportion had voted the result could well have been different.

Ahead of this year's general election, the youth demographic could be forgiven for feeling a little despondent at their options.

Labour is in such disarray that Diane Abbott has bungled her way into the shadow cabinet, despite appearing to believe a police officer's annual wage should be roughly equivalent to the price of three Happy Meals.

Theresa May seems to have been told to banish words other than 'strong' and 'stable' from her vocabulary, like a citizen of an Orwellian dystopia.

At least youngsters were engaged in the tidal wave of memes inspired by her inability to eat a chip like a normal human being.

Then there is Tim Farron of the Lib Dems, who has repeatedly shown his reluctance to say he does not have a problem with gay sex.

Issues which affect the young, like housing benefit, haven't featured heavily in parties' pre-election campaigns. But then why would politicians pander to us if we're not voting?

Until we do in greater number, our issues are always going to be less of a priority than pensions.

Parties' apathy to the young has led to disenfranchisement, which has only entrenched the apathy.

Let's break the cycle.

Tory says he will campaign to make sure 'Brexit means Brexit'

ROBERT Halfon launched his campaign to be re-elected as Harlow MP by pledging to make sure "Brexit means Brexit".

The Conservative candidate for the general election spoke to press on Monday, May 8, by the A414 into Harlow, a common rallying spot in his two previous election wins.

A few days after his party won all four Harlow seats at Essex County Council, Mr Halfon said: "There is a long way to go. Brexit is a key part of the campaign. I made a promise after the EU referendum that I would do everything possible in my power to make that happen.

"[Prime minister] Theresa May will bring strong and stable leadership against the chaos of Labour."

He added: "We need new housing and we need new roads and infrastructure. The Enterprise Zone will bring jobs and will lead more housing and prosperity. Protecting the NHS is a key priority. I will work to get more money. We need a new hospital in Harlow and I have campaigned hard for that."

On crime, Mr Halfon said: "Crime is falling in Harlow but we do need more police. Essex Police are putting more work into cutting crime and I want to see more of that."

Conservative Party supporters and Tory members of Harlow Council held signs to attract passing motorists.

Mr Halfon arrived on his campaign battlebus which blasts out campaign slogans and Rocky III theme tune Eye of the Tiger through a PA system.

He is one of four candidates to announce they are standing in Harlow on Thursday, June 8 alongside Phil Waite (Labour), Geoff Seeff (Lib Dem) and Hannah Clare (Green).

GENERAL ELECTION

Phil Waite, Labour candidate for Harlow in the general election

'Election is about more than Brexit'

Candidate highlights community issues

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

LABOUR candidate Phil Waite feels issues beyond Brexit will win him the bell-weather Harlow seat in the General Election.

The Harlow Council member described himself as a Labourite, rather than specifically a Corbynite, and said if the party win Harlow they will almost certainly take a majority in Parliament.

Last week Labour lost three Harlow seats on Essex County Council to the Tories but Mr Waite is confident of his chances in the vote on Thursday, June 8.

He said: "It was a difficult night for our great candidates. There are a number of reasons for that, UKIP did not enter any candidates so the Brexit voters may have backed the Tories instead."

"The Labour vote stood up very well. The General Election will be different and it's clear that it is not just about Brexit. People have spoken about the NHS, housing and crime."

Mr Waite explained five pledges he made for his potential term in office, the first one being crime in the community.

"It's about reintroducing community police units and police officers," he said. "Anti-social behaviour is a problem."

An article sharing Labour's pledge to put 10,000 extra police on the streets was re-tweeted by Mr Waite, who commented: "I will fight tooth and nail to deliver this policy in Harlow and villages."

On the NHS and social care, his second pledge, Mr Waite said: "It is a disgrace the government can make all the excuses they like when they have underinvested in the NHS."

Failed

"They have failed all of their targets, the four hour waiting time target has not been met for two years."

"I think Harlow needs a new hospital. There needs to be a community team set up for social care."

Mr Waite, a father-of-four who has lived in the town for 30 years, is a trade officer for Union of Shop Distributors and Allied Workers.

Entering Westminster is not a lifelong dream. He said: "I had not thought of becoming an MP but I did some serious thinking and talked to my family. I think Harlow needs a local candidate."

Mr Waite, who voted Remain in the EU Referendum, slammed the Conservative Brexit negotiations and said he would fight for the best deal.

However, he said the issue was not the most discussed on the doorstep and that housing, his third campaign pledge, was an important issue.

On a visit to Harlow last month, Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn promised to build one million homes nationwide in five years.

On his fourth pledge, education, Mr Waite said: "Tory policy seems to be one of grammar schools. I want to see a publicly funded education system that is for everybody."

"The government is talking about the recession being Labour's fault," he said on his fifth pledge, the economy. "But it was mainly due to the housing crisis in the US."

"Austerity does not work. They have slowed growth and we need to restore this growth."

"It's about getting people better rates at work. A lot of people are upset about 'immigration' (in regards to work) but they are really upset their wages are being driven down."

Green Party hopeful makes promise to protect the town's health services

THE Green Party has announced Hannah Clare will be its general election candidate for Harlow.

A crowdfunding campaign was held to raise the £500 needed for her to stand in the vote on Thursday, June 8.

Miss Clare, 24, has lived in Harlow for most of her life and hopes the party can build on the 954 votes Murray Sackville polled in the 2015 election.

She said: "I am really pleased to have been selected as the Green Party candidate for my home town of Harlow, giving people the chance to vote for a candidate who stands up for people and planet."

"My priorities in this campaign are protecting our health services from cuts, including Princess Alexandra Hospital, obtaining a better deal for Harlow's commuters, who pay more per mile than anywhere else in the UK and securing a second referendum on the EU, once the final deal is on the table."

CLEAN SWEEP: Conservative victory in all four Harlow seats, wiping out Labour

Town is true blue on county council vote night

Harlow Conservatives celebrate a good night at the Essex County Council election count winning all four of the town's seats

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE Conservative Party won all four Harlow seats in the Essex County Council elections last Thursday (May 4).

In a significant swing from Labour, the Tories won the Harlow North and both Harlow West seats while defending the Harlow South East seat.

Labour, which controls Harlow Council, no longer has any Harlow representation at County Hall.

Mike Garnett (Cons) won Harlow North with 2,512 votes from previous Labour councillor Mike Danvers (2,036) and Lib Dem Lesley Rideout (379).

The Tory said: "I am extremely pleased for all the hard work put in. We fought a good battle."

The turnout figure in this ward of 28.6 per cent was slightly up from four years ago. Ukip did not enter any candidates due to a clerical error.

Conservatives Michael Hardware and Clive Souter took the two Harlow West seats from Labour pair Tony Durcan and Karen Clempner.

Afterwards, Mr Durcan said: "I am completely disappointed for myself and my family who have supported me, but also the real strong team we have assembled in Harlow."

"We will move on. I am surprised. We put a lot of effort into these issues, it's too early to say why but it is my understanding the Labour vote held up very strongly."

"Of course we had the unique problem that Ukip failed to put any candidates in."

Vote

"If you look at where Ukip is coming from it may well explain why the Conservative vote went up."

"Tonight has not been a good night. We have a great candidate for the general election in Phil Waite, we will learn the lessons and go out and campaign to make him MP."

Eddie Johnson (Cons) had a small majority over Labour for Harlow South East in 2013 but polled nearly 1,000 more votes than second place Eugenie Harvey this time around.

He said: "From four years ago when the margin was 21 votes, the lowest in Essex, it has been confirmed with a majority of 1,000."

"I am really happy to be able to carry on working for Harlow."

Parliamentary candidates Robert Halfon (Cons)

RESULTS: How you voted at the polls

The results in full:

Harlow North

Mike Danvers - Labour Party 2,036

Lesley Rideout - Liberal Democrats 379

Michael Garnett - Conservative Party 2,512

Harlow South East

Eugenie Harvey - Labour Party 1,495

Christopher Robins - Liberal Democrats 293

Eddie Johnson - Conservative Party 2,468

Harlow West

(two candidates to be selected)

Karen Clempner - Labour Party 3,457

Tony Durcan - Labour Party 3,315

Christopher Millington - Liberal Democrats 297

Robert Thurston - Liberal Democrats 248

Michael Hardware - Conservative Party 3,940

Clive Souter - Conservative Party 3,802

James Aicken - Green Party 405

Hannah Clare - Green Party 561

and Phil Waite (Lab) attended the count.

The pair will soon launch their general election campaigns.

Mr Halfon said: "It is a wonderful result for hard working Harlow Conservatives. They have campaigned in the building of an even better Harlow."

"This is a vote about the work of Harlow councillors. I take nothing for granted but it is encouraging."

The Conservatives were dominant elsewhere in Essex and held on to county council political power, but with votes to Independent candidates increasing significantly.

With all 75 seats declared, the Conservatives now control 56, with only 38 needed for a majority.

This gives them a more than comfortable 74.67 per cent of the seats.

Coming in second were the Liberal Democrats, with seven seats, closely followed by Labour, who now have six seats.

It was not a great night for the Green Party, as although James Abbott retained his seat in Witham Northern, Michael Hoy lost Rochford West to Conservative Carole Weston, who took 48.13 per cent of the vote.

Wiped

The party to suffer the most was Ukip, which was completely wiped off the map, with the party losing all nine of its seats.

Across Essex, 33.62 per cent of registered voters turned out to cast their ballot papers, an increase on the 27.6 per cent of the electorate who voted in the 2013 local elections.

Pair found with class A drugs in shorts are jailed

Men had wraps of heroin and cocaine

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TWO dealers, found with 246 wraps of class A drugs hidden in their boxer shorts, have been jailed.

The pair were stopped and searched in Staple Tye, Harlow, on Saturday, January 28 and were taken to Harlow Police Station.

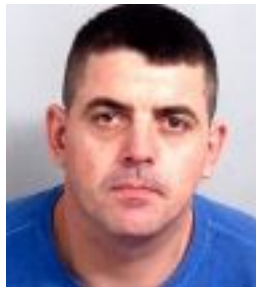

Marian Beresoane, 35, of Roman Road, Ilford, hid 90 wraps of crack cocaine in his pants and Robert-Marian Stanciu, 23, of Dunkeld Road, Dagenham, was found hiding 80 wraps of heroin and 69 wraps of crack cocaine in his boxers.

Admitted

Bersoane admitted two counts of possessing a Class A drug with intent to supply, driving whilst disqualified and without insurance.

He was jailed for 32 months and given an 18-month driving ban.

Stanciu pleaded guilty to two

counts of possessing a Class A drug with intent to supply. He was also jailed for 32-months.

Detective constable Jake Etheridge, of Essex Police's Operation Raptor unit, said: "The drugs concealed by both Beresoane and Stanciu were destined for the streets of our county, there can be no doubt about that."

"But unfortunately for both men they underestimated how intent Essex Police is on both preventing illegal drugs from reaching our streets and locking up those involved in their sale and distribution.

"Make no mistake, if you are involved in the illegal drugs trade just like Beresoane and Stanciu, it is only a matter of time before you can expect a visit from us."

Shopper rushed to hospital after blood pressure check

'It was sky high, up in the 200s. He could have had a heart attack.'

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MAN was rushed to hospital after a blood pressure check in a Harlow shopping centre gave potentially fatal results.

Harlow Tye Rotary Club tested 232 people in the Harvey Centre on Saturday April 22 and 12 per cent were advised to see their GP within the next week or month.

The community group held the event with nurses from Rivers Hospital in Sawbridgeworth to raise awareness of the dangers of high blood pressure, in partnership with Stroke Association.

Event organiser Chris Harriss, community secretary for Harlow Tye Rotary, said: "This guy came along and he was well built. I asked if he would like a free blood pressure check.

"He did not understand me. But he came over and we found out he was Bulgarian.

"He did not speak English but he did speak Italian, which one of the nurses understood.

"Later I heard one of the nurses and a Rotary member had taken him to Princess Alexandra Hospital's A&E. His blood pressure was sky high, up in the 200s, it was unbelievable. He came back later and will go to the hospital for more tests.

"He was thankful."
"He could have had a heart attack or a stroke."

High blood pressure can lead to a stroke and can be prevented by a healthy lifestyle. Medication can also be prescribed.

Mr Harriss has helped organise the blood pressure checks since 2003.

Bill Colton, senior vice president of Harlow Tye Rotary, added: "Rotary clubs across the country hold these Know Your Blood Pressure Days nationwide.

Concerned

"We advised more than ten per cent to visit their GP because of high blood pressure. It was the first time that anyone was taken to hospital and the nurses were really concerned."

Mr Colton said the group are not experts and he did not wish to speculate if the higher than average number of people with high blood pressure suggested unhealthy lifestyles in Harlow were to blame.

He added: "We went up to people and asked 'do you know

Chris Harriss of Harlow Tye Rotary with nurses from Rivers Hospital

your blood pressure?' We targeted the 40-60-year-olds as older people had already been to the doctors and had checks.

"You might have high blood pressure and not know about it.

They feel fit and healthy but they might not have been to the doctors. It is a problem area."

Woman, 83, broke both ankles after town centre wheelie stunt

A TEENAGER was attempting to do a wheelie on his bike when he ploughed into an 83-year-old woman on her way to play bingo and broke both her ankles.

The 15-year-old boy, who cannot be named for legal reasons, lost control of his bike and crashed into the pensioner in Harlow town centre on February 18 of this year.

Chelmsford Youth Court heard on Friday April 28 how he had been attempting to pull the stunt on his bike when he lost control.

Ran away

Upon seeing the woman on the ground, he fled the scene after receiving verbal abuse from members of the public who had stopped to help.

In a victim statement read out in court, the pensioner said she was "frustrated and angry," and that she had "lost my freedom of movement, and can't do anything for myself".

The boy, himself from Harlow, was given a referral order of nine months and ordered to pay £250 in compensation.

Ron Bill contributed to the Harlow Star's Harlow is 70 series

Tributes paid to a respected town historian

'He knew every nook and corner of Harlow'

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

TRIBUTES have poured in to remember Harlow historian and active community member Ron Bill, who has died aged 84.

The father-of-three, who lived in Mark Hall, Harlow, died on Tuesday April 18 in Basildon Hospital following a heart operation.

Having settled in Harlow in 1956, after marrying his wife Alice the year before, Mr Bill worked for the district council for many years and wrote several books.

He is survived by his wife and their three children: Jackie, Rosemary and Rodney, as well as three grandchildren.

Stan Newens, former Harlow MP and lifelong friend, said: "He knew every nook and corner of Harlow, led walks, and recorded every detail of the town's history.

"As a new town enthusiast, he worked through the Labour Party and other organisations to lobby for The Playhouse, Harlow Museum, the Leah Manning Centre and other facilities to enhance the town.

"He was also active for many years in the Co-operative movement and in film societies."

Articles

In addition Mr Bill was a prolific letter writer to the Harlow Star and contributed to several articles.

His books include: A Civic History of Harlow 1955-85, Armorial Bearings in Harlow, Coming to Harlow: The Rentman Cometh and Harlow Recollections.

Rev Dennis Nadin, a long-time friend, said: "He was Mr Harlow, he was a supporter for most of his life and he would always see good in the town.

"He knew more about the history of Harlow than anyone. We were meeting until right before he died. I saw him in hospital and he was just himself, the news was a great shock."

Robert Halfon, Harlow MP, said: "I was really sad to learn of the death of Ron Bill.

"He was a truly great man of Harlow who dedicated his life to the wellbeing of the town.

"I was touched when he asked me to do a speech at the launch of his book on the history of Harlow Council – it's a must read for anyone who wants to understand our heritage.

"Although we had very different politics, he is someone I really respected and learned a lot from."

■ The Harlow Star delayed publishing news of Mr Bill's death in compliance with wishes of members of his family.

Shopping centre car cleaning launch

To launch the service, the first 50 customers received a free cup of coffee from Harvey Centre café BB's.

Bryan Young, Harvey Centre manager, said: "Wash, Shop and Go is a great addition to the range of services available at the Harvey Centre.

"Now there's no need to choose between giving the car a wash or going shopping when time's tight.

"Now you can do both."

A decade after injury left him immobilised, hero completes fundraising mission

Brain victim David walks miracle mile

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TEN years after a brain haemorrhage left him unable to move, a former half-marathon runner ceremoniously walked one mile in Harlow town centre.

David Chennells, 36, of Torkildsen Way, Harlow, set off from Esquires Coffee House on Saturday, April 29.

Flanked by family and friends, he walked his longest distance since the injury.

It has taken years of rehabilitation for him to learn to walk and talk but he trained hard for the challenge and has raised more than £3,000 for the Brain and Spine Foundation.

Catherine Ridge, 34, of Harlow, a friend who organised the event, said: "Before his brain injury, the former solicitor used to run half-marathons but it has taken years of rehabilitation just to relearn the basic skills of speaking and walking."

"Now, almost ten years to the date later, David was determined to do something positive to mark this anniversary and his 36th birthday."

"Over the past six months David has been using a tailored programme at Harlow Leisurezone, attending physiotherapy at Mike Varney's clinic and trying to complete a long walk each week."

A brain haemorrhage, also known as a subarachnoid haemorrhage, is a type of stroke where a bleeding on the brain kills cells. It is a serious condition and can be fatal.

Harlow MP Robert Halfon, who has cerebral palsy, cheered Mr Chennells as the group walked around Broad Walk and Market Square.

Mr Chennells, a volunteer with Harlow Citizens Advice, said afterwards: "Loads of people came to join the walk and I really wasn't expecting so many."

"I feel very proud to complete the challenge and I'm really grateful to everyone who donated and walked with me."

"I'm shocked by how much money we've managed to raise in total."

Andrew Cater from the Brain and Spine Foundation said: "We congratulate David on his remarkable one-mile walk, we were very proud to be there on the day to show support."

"We are extremely grateful for the incredible amount of money he has raised. With this amount, we are able to run our neuroscience nurse-staffed helpline for 12 days."

"Anyone with any neurological problem, whether it is rare or common, is able to receive expert information and support via our helpline and David, through his fantastic fundraising efforts, has ensured continuity to this much-needed service."

Champagne corks will pop if you win

Enter our awards to celebrate success

DESPITE a six-month wait until the Essex Business Excellence Awards 2017 reach their climax, the excitement is already beginning to mount with a number of businesses already putting their support behind the awards.

Entries are now open for the business awards, which applaud the success of some of Essex's business elite and reward them with a night they will not forget.

The awards have become a key part of the region's event calendar and so naturally an award win brings great honour to a company.

As well as boosting the morale of everyone that works at the winning firm, an award also opens the door to a number of business opportunities, as does attending the awards.

Networking

Guests in attendance include a selection of businesses who all have an interest in networking and building new relationships with local businesses, and so the awards provide unrivalled access to Essex's business elite.

Headline sponsors of the event are full-service solicitors Wortley Byers, who work with businesses and individuals across Essex.

Category sponsors include chartered accountants Rickard Luckin, Choice Finance which provides mortgage and financial solutions, luxury lifestyle magazine Inspirational London, leading building merchants Jewson and insurance brokers James Hallam.

It is thanks to the support of these dedicated and generous sponsors that the awards remain prominent in the region and without them the awards simply would not exist today.

Entering the awards is quick and easy, just head to the website www.essexbusinessexcellenceawards.co.uk, set up a portal and choose which categories you

A company can enter up to three categories and must have an Essex-registered address and pay business rates to an Essex authority to be eligible to enter.

The awards are centred on 13 core categories, which have been hand selected to ensure they attract the crème de la crème of the region.

Entries for the awards are open until Friday, August 25 so there is plenty of time for you to get involved.

As well as providing great opportunity for the finalists and eventual winners of each category, the sponsors behind each award also benefit greatly from being associated with the awards.

There are still sponsorship opportunities available across categories at the awards, so if you want to get involved then visit www.essexbusinessexcellenceawards.co.uk

FOREIGN AID

Give priority to UK pensioners

IN response to the letter from Naeema Raza about foreign aid, I feel the British Government needs to give priority to British people before they start giving out foreign aid. While foreign aid is a good thing to do it must not be at the detrimental effect of British people.

The Government must give priority to looking after British pensioners and helping British homeless people as well as protecting British jobs and social housing to British people before thinking about other countries.

However, in order for them to do that they firstly need to stop worrying about offending the over-sensitive "snowflake generation" as well as not worrying about coming across as "racist". It's not racist to look after your own.

HOUSING CRISIS

Pet project was funded instead

IN the spring edition of the Council's publication Harlow Times the leader of Harlow District Council said: "I am proud that once again the council's budgets for 2017/18 will see no services closed or cut and in the Star I had previously asked: "Why then the increase in council tax and where will the money go?"

Well I think he should now come clean and tell us, because, the Council is providing a multi-million pound loan to its new trading company HTS Ltd.

How can his Council fund the doubling of the housing services work force? Tripling HTS Ltd work force over that of KierHarlow JVC? Dramatically increase the staff working in Contact Harlow? And still have a surplus of funds that he can lend to Harlow?

Would it not have been better to use this money to build more council houses and help ease the burden of those on the housing waiting list? Or maybe he could use it to ease the pressure on our creaking social care system in Harlow?

I think the residents of Harlow need to know which of our elected councillors voted to run up such a large surplus and how many of them are proud of the quality of the few services Harlow Council provides for its residents, now that we all know that money is not so tight that they cannot afford to fund pet projects.

The council controlled company Harlow Trading Services Ltd, has not it would seem been set up to provide services to the residents, but, to allow HDC to trade out here in the real world. HDC is using a loophole in HM Treasury borrowing regulations to potentially create a pile of corporate debt for the residents of Harlow. How can we trust the council to operate out here in the real world when they are incapable of providing even the simplest of public services right here in Harlow? It seems that other councils may have used the loophole to move ring-fenced funds around? Is that HDC's intention? Have they already done so by loaning HTS Ltd millions of pounds?

We do not know who advised the council to do this because we have not been consulted, what we do know is when (not if) it all goes pear-shaped, HDC will have to pay the advisers and any loan interest payments ahead of providing services to residents.

Who can we trust to get Harlow out of this mess? Not, it would seem, our existing elected representatives.

The only way residents will know things are going wrong is when senior officers start making excuses and leaving, and, senior councillors stop defending their seats.

EDUCATION

Savage cuts devastating

I HAVE been proud to have been able to teach in Harlow over the last 16 years and represent teachers in the NUT over the last 11 years. Harlow has some fabulous schools, fantastic teachers and great students. Constantly they defy all that this Government throws at them in the form of Fragmentation with Academisation and Free Schools, the threat of divisive grammar schools, excessive and unhelpful testing as well as poorer teacher pay, pensions and conditions of service. Over the last seven years the fight for education has been on in Harlow and teachers, with support staff, have battled against the odds for the young people of Harlow.

However, the current Conservative government – which is seeking your support for re-election – has begun a programme of cuts so savage that education in the town faces devastation. Cuts that are likely to average £100,000, (three teachers) for primary schools and £500,000 (up to 15 teachers) for secondary schools. This will not only lead to the loss of teaching jobs, following last year's cull of support staff, but will result in a dramatic rise in class sizes for your children.

One would have thought that the town's MP, a minister in the Education Department, might have stood up to defend the teachers in his town or the plight of the schools in Harlow – but he hasn't uttered a single word of support.

Harlow parents really need to consider this when they choose who to vote for in both May and June. The current situation is simply unsustainable.

BOWLS CLUB

New members always welcome

THE Griffin Bowls Club, based behind the Latton Bush Centre, achieved 'Clubmark' status last year and is the first bowls club in Essex to receive this award for lawn bowls and short mat bowls. The members are now working hard to become a bowls club for the whole community by making partnerships with local schools and cub packs.

Sixty-four pupils from St Mark's School have visited the bowls club in four groups for six weeks of coaching for short mat bowls this spring. Coaches John Barwick, Jim Jordan and Bill Baker, with the help of several other club members, have guided the pupils from Years 8 and 9 from complete beginners to a group of youngsters capable of playing games. It has been a really successful venture and Ray Flowers, head of PE, has said that it has been a brilliant, confidence boosting experience for the students.

In another venture, The Griffin have entertained cubs from 1st Kingsmoor and 16th Harlow packs for two hours on Saturday mornings. The same coaches and helpers at The Griffin have been involved, and it is hoped that some of the cubs will be successful in attaining the badge – 'Learn a New Sport'. Trevor Chappell, the Scout leader has remarked on the dedication of the club coaches and helpers, and the enthusiasm this has generated within the cubs.

There are plans already in place to bring the students and the cubs to the club in the summer to play outside. The Griffin is ideally placed as they have two excellent greens, with plenty of room for everyone.

There are also advanced discussions in progress with local disabled groups and with Age UK Dementia, with the aim of making partnerships here as well.

Danny Doyle, Griffin Club Chairman, said "The club are working hard to achieve their aims, and with one green already upgraded this spring, the whole club is looking forward to an exciting outdoor season.

We are always looking for new members, whatever their age or ability, and if anyone feels like having a go, we have our Open Day on Monday, May 29, or you can come on a Wednesday evening from 6pm. Please just bring flat shoes to wear, we will provide everything else."

GARDEN

Grant will save historic gem

GIBBERD Garden continues to blossom with local support

Trustees of a grade two listed garden gem, situated on the north eastern edge of Harlow, are delighted to receive a grant of £8,000.

The money was donated from the John and Wenna Marks Charitable Fund which is managed by the independent charitable trust, Essex Community Foundation (ECF).

The Gibberd Garden is the creation of Sir Frederick Gibberd, an uncompromising modernist architect who was the master-planner of Harlow New Town. Sir Frederick bought the house and 15 acre site in 1957 as his home. He made alterations to the house and gradually created the garden over many years and until his death in 1984. Many sculptures were bought and commissioned for the garden as well as ceramic pots and architectural pieces. The garden is said to be one of the few outstanding examples of 20th Century garden design.

Sir Frederick had wished that the garden be used for education and recreation in perpetuity and in 1995 the Gibberd Garden Trust was formed to preserve and develop the garden for public benefit. For more than 20 years, a team of volunteers support the gardeners to maintain and preserve the area.

Derek Hayes, a trustee and treasurer of the Gibberd Garden, said, "We are thrilled to receive this donation which will be used to maintain this cherished piece of Harlow history for future generations to enjoy."

Wenna Marks has lived in Harlow for 56 years and her late husband, John, was a trustee of the garden. Wenna, who is now a trustee said, "I am so pleased to be able to give help to the garden from our charitable fund with ECF."

"I know how hard all of the supporters, gardeners and the volunteers work, to keep this a peaceful and beautiful place."

The Gibberd Garden is open from 2 to 6pm every Wednesday, Saturday, Sunday and bank holiday Monday until September 24. Parts of the house, the Gibberd Rooms, are open for a small extra fee on a Sunday afternoon on a timed access.

FOOD & DRINK

Feast that is fit for a royal table

Prince Charles and Princess Diana's former personal chef Carolyn Robb tells MARION McMULLEN about her famous clients' favourite dishes and how to add a royal touch to food

CREATING a feast fit for royal tastes is a talent Carolyn Robb has in abundance. The former royal chef cooked for Prince Charles, Princess Diana and young princes William and Harry for more than a decade and still treasures the thank you notes they sent her for her fabulous meals.

Lamb was always a favourite with Charles while Diana was a fan of Carolyn's asparagus, Swiss chard and goats cheese tart.

Harry and William often visited the royal kitchens when they were little and Carolyn's daughters, Lucy and Mandy, now help her in her own kitchen.

Carolyn smiles: "The young princes always managed to come up with ideas for their birthday cakes that pushed the art of constructing something out of cake to the limit – police motorbikes, helicopters and ships."

Prince William even had childhood favourite, chocolate biscuit cake, as the groom cake for his wedding to Kate Middleton. It included 1,700 biscuits and more than 37lbs of chocolate.

"My 13 years in the royal household were filled with incredible experiences and I have so many happy memories of this time," adds Carolyn.

"I subsequently lived and worked in Dubai and California, both of which gave me fascinating insights into new and very different cuisines, cultures and lifestyles. I came away with many fresh ideas and new perspectives on food."

Carolyn, who grew up in South Africa, says the secret of good food is fresh produce. "I'm not a fan of extreme diets and processed foods."

"A good balance of nutrition and exercise is best. My parents lived into their 90s and never had prepared, processed food from shops."

She adds:

"Working for the royal family was a dream job. I think I was in the right place at the right time."

SOUPER STARTER ASPARAGUS & NEW POTATO SOUP WITH PARMESAN STRAWS (SERVES 4)

INGREDIENTS

For the Parmesan straws (makes 18):

200g/7oz ready-made, all-butter puff pastry
1 medium free-range egg
2tbsp finely chopped chives
3tbsp finely grated Parmesan
1tsp white sesame seeds
1tsp black sesame seeds
A pinch of paprika

For the soup:

800g/1½lb asparagus (about 50 spears)
2 medium onions
1 small leek
2tbsp olive oil
750ml/26fl oz chicken stock
150ml/5fl oz crème fraîche
1tbsp finely chopped chives
Salt & freshly ground black pepper

For the garnish:

The asparagus tips from the 800g asparagus
6 small new potatoes
30g/1oz butter
A handful of fresh chervil

METHOD

1. Make the Parmesan straws. Roll out the pastry on a floured board to a size of 25cm (10ins) square and a thickness of 3mm (¼inch). Glaze all over with the egg and sprinkle with the chives, Parmesan, sesame seeds and paprika. Chill for 10 minutes in the refrigerator (this makes the pastry easier to cut) then, using a long-bladed knife, cut 18 long points, then chill. Preheat oven to 190°C/375°F and bake the straws for 12 to 15 minutes.

2. Make the soup. Snap off and discard the tough, woody bottom section of the asparagus stalks. Cut off the tips to use for the garnish. Chop the remaining stalks into 1cm (½in) sections.

3. Peel and finely dice the onions, wash and finely chop the leek. Cook them slowly in the olive oil in a heavy-based pan over a low heat with a lid on, until the onion is translucent and the leek is very soft. Don't allow them to brown as this will spoil the soup's colour.

4. Bring the chicken stock to the boil in another pan.

Cook the asparagus tips in the stock for three to five minutes until tender, plunge into cold water, drain and put to one side.

5. Dice the new potatoes, cook them in the stock until tender, drain and keep on one side. Once the onion and leek are soft, add the chicken stock and asparagus stems to the pan. Cook for 10 to 12 minutes until the asparagus is tender. Don't overcook it or it becomes a very dull colour.

6. Remove from the heat and cool before blending it to a smooth consistency using a liquidiser or a stick blender.

7. To serve, reheat the soup thoroughly. Whisk in the crème fraîche and chives, add salt and pepper to taste.

8. Meanwhile, reheat the asparagus tips and diced new potato in the butter.

9. Pour the soup into pre-warmed cups or bowls and top with a spoon of diced potato, a few asparagus tips and a pretty sprig of chervil.

10. Serve with a couple of Parmesan straws.

I'LL not dilly dally. I bring you two pairs of wines which are setting the standard in their own unique ways. Enjoy. (I'm now running outside to sit in the sun.)

A COUPLE OF ELEGANT ENGLISH WINES

Kit's Coty Blanc de Blancs 2013 (chapeldown.com, RRP £39.99, 12% abv): This is packed with giddy bubbles which stream and constantly play in the glass. It is made from chardonnay grapes hand-picked from Chapel Down's Kit's Coty vineyard in Kent. The English sparkler – made in the same way as champagne – has aromas of ripe red apples, a touch of tarte tatin, lemons and a dabble with brioche; flavours of ripe apple balance with a good dash of acidity and together they create a good finish.

RAISE A GLASS

Its sister wine Kit's Coty Chardonnay 2014 (RRP £29.99, 12% abv) follows in the footsteps of the 2013 vintage which won Best UK White Wine over £15 in the Decanter World Wine Awards. It's a wild-ferment wine – fermentation begins via naturally occurring yeasts on the berries and within the winery which adds complexity to the wine. The wine has been matured in French oak which delivers toasted notes alongside aromas of apple, lemon, with hints of fresh peach.

■ English Wine Week is coming up from Saturday, May 27 – go to englishwineproducers.co.uk

A COUPLE OF ECO-FRIENDLY REDS

The other week I told you about Aldi's new Green Collection; it's the first time the retailer has embraced an organic initiative on its wine shelves. There are eight wines in the range (I've already mentioned their organic prosecco at £7.99) and here are two more.

Wakefield 80 Acres Shiraz Vignier 2015 (£6.99, 14% abv) and Wakefield 80 Acres Cabernet Shiraz Merlot 2015 (£6.99, 14.5% abv) are both carbon neutral and made in South Australia's Clare Valley. The winery has introduced an audit of the vineyard to ensure elements of its carbon footprint are minimised.

This has seen best practice in viticulture and winemaking techniques along with water and energy conservation, organic cultivation, composting, minimal pesticide use, regeneration of the Wakefield River and use of renewable energy. Yay.

But what of the wines? The shiraz vignier is a deep ruby red with aromas and flavours of plums and black fruits; the cabernet shiraz reminded me of blackcurrant jam, the fruit is beckoning with a tremble of spice all softened round the edges with low tannins.

■ Also in my glass... I've just nipped to a Marks & Spencer tasting and here's a first-up mention to Gers 2016 (£5.50, 11.5% abv) which would make a refreshing white to pour now the weather is warming up – and when you don't want to stretch the purse strings. It is a blend of four grapes, with gros manseng playing the leading role. The wine has lemon, gooseberry, grapefruit, apple and lemon aromas, and similar flavours kick in and refresh the palate. I'll share some more M&S wines very soon.

4 small globe artichokes
1 lemon
A little olive oil
150g/5½oz green beans
400g/14oz celeriac (1 large root)
120g/4oz butter
4 fillet steaks (185g/6oz each)
100g/3½oz fresh porcini mushrooms
100g/3½oz fresh chestnut mushrooms
A few sprigs of fresh thyme
150ml/5floz double cream
Salt and freshly ground black pepper

METHOD

1. Preparing artichokes takes time and some skill. However, if time is of the essence, or fresh artichokes are not available, then you can use the small artichokes in oil that you find in most Italian delicatessens.
2. Top and tail the green beans, wash and cook in boiling, lightly salted water until they are tender. Refresh in iced water and keep on one side.
3. Peel the celeriac, then using a large sharp knife, cut it into very thin slivers. Melt 60g (4tbsps) of the butter in a large, preferably non-stick, frying pan and cook the celeriac until it is very tender and golden around the edges.

4. Melt 30g (2tbsps) of the butter and brush it onto the steaks, season them with salt and pepper. Heat a non-stick frying pan and cook them for four to five minutes, turning them to seal them on all sides. Transfer the steaks to a baking tray and cook them at 220°C/425°F for a further eight to 10 minutes, for a medium-cooked steak.

MAGICAL MAIN

SIMPLE ROAST FILLET OF BEEF WITH CELERIAC, GREEN BEANS AND ARTICHOKES AND A MUSHROOM CREAM SAUCE (SERVES 4)

5. While the steak is in the oven, clean and slice the mushrooms. Sauté them in the remaining butter, using the frying pan that the steak was cooked in. Season with salt and pepper, add the thyme and the cream and cook the sauce for a couple of minutes to reduce it slightly.
6. To serve, reheat the beans, artichoke hearts and celeriac in a little olive oil. Place the celeriac on warmed plates with the steak on top. Surround with the beans and artichokes. Spoon the mushroom sauce over the steaks and serve immediately.

INGREDIENTS

For the posset:
500ml/17.5floz double cream
110ml/4floz milk
140g/5oz caster sugar
30ml/2tbsp freshly pressed lemon juice
30ml/2tbsp freshly pressed lime juice
Zest of 1 lime
Zest of 1 unwaxed lemon
200g/7oz fresh blueberries
For the sesame caramel shards:
115g/4oz caster sugar
60ml/4tbsp water
30g/2tbsp sesame seeds

METHOD

1. Make the posset. Bring the cream, milk and sugar to the boil and simmer for three minutes. Watch it closely as it boils over easily.
2. Remove from the heat, grate the citrus zest directly into the cream and add the citrus juice, stir well.
3. Pour the mixture into the ramekins or cups. Leave to very quickly darkens and burns. Add the sesame seeds and then pour out in a thin layer onto the baking tray lined with a silicon sheet.

5. Leave for about 15 minutes to harden, before breaking it into small shards. If it is a damp or humid day it should be moved into an airtight container as soon as it is cold and hard or it will quickly become soft and sticky.
6. Present the posset on a dessert plate, spiked with a couple of caramel shards and accompanied by the blueberries and you can also add shortbread fingers.

cool before putting in the refrigerator to chill for two to three hours.
4. Make the sesame caramel shards. Place the sugar and water in a small heavy-based pan on a medium heat. Stir to dissolve the sugar and then allow to simmer until it becomes a rich gold colour. Keep a close eye on it as it

MISS SLOANE (15)

ON THE campaign trail, Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump promised to “drain the swamp” in Washington D.C. and restore integrity to American politics.

The lead character of John Madden’s riveting political thriller is one of those egregious pond-dwellers.

Portrayed to icy perfection by two-time Oscar nominee Jessica Chastain, inset, Elizabeth Sloane is a cut-throat lobbyist, who shrewdly anticipates her opponents’ moves and devises cunning counter-measures as she manipulates the hearts and minds of power players on Capitol Hill.

A pill-popping insomniac with trump cards up her designer label sleeves, she’s a delicious anti-heroine for a modern age of appearance-driven politics – someone to secretly root for as she unapologetically wrecks lives in her relentless pursuit of glory.

Like Glenn Close’s duplicitous Marquise de Merteuil in Dangerous Liaisons, Elizabeth is a self-made angel of destruction, who snarls at the supposed frailties of her sex.

First-time scriptwriter Jonathan Perera arms his crisply suited combatants with whip-smart dialogue for bruising verbal exchanges.

Winning, at any price, favours the wilfully reckless.

Elizabeth’s current firm of Cole Kravitz & Waterman, headed by George Dupont (Sam Waterston), implores her to lobby against the contentious Heaton-Harris bill, which is poised to go before Congress and proposes more rigorous background checks for firearm purchases.

She refuses and defects to rivals Peterson Wyatt, run by Rodolfo Schmidt (Mark Strong), taking with her four ambitious juniors: Alex (Douglas Smith), Brian (Ennis Esmer), Franklin (Noah Robbins) and Lauren (Grace Lynn Kung).

Surprisingly, her personal assistant Jane (Alison Pill) refuses to bite the legal hand that feeds her and remains at Cole Kravitz & Waterman.

“You are delusional if you think you can survive without me,” snarls Elizabeth.

In modest, new surroundings, Elizabeth tests her reputation as a woman with a “gold medal in ethical limbo” by marshalling support for the bill.

She personally selects Peterson Wyatt high-flyer Esme Manucharian (Gugu Mbatha-Raw) as the campaign’s media figurehead.

Elizabeth’s tactics reap rewards and, in retaliation, Dupont searches for evidence of illegal practices that will force his former golden girl to stand trial at a hearing chaired by Congressman Ron M Sperling (John Lithgow).

Miss Sloane unfolds largely in flashback in order to conceal scriptwriter Perera’s sly plotting.

Chastain is imperious, revealing tiny chinks in her character’s polished armour as she teeters precariously on the precipice of self-annihilation.

Robust support from co-stars and more than one final reel surprise ensure we’re avid spectators to this modern-day hunger games of brazen one-upwomanship.

Familiar horrors are revisited in Alien: Covenant as a spaceship answers a distress call and the crew faces a terrifying ordeal

Alien resurrected

ALIEN: COVENANT (15)

If Ridley Scott’s seminal 1979 sci-fi horror Alien and the anthology it spawned teach us anything, it’s that in the inky void of space, everyone can hear your bloodcurdling screams.

Alien: Covenant confirms another disheartening fact: every time the thrice Oscar-nominated director from South Shields revisits his beautifully stylised universe, he tarnishes the golden lustre of the original film.

Set approximately 10 years after the humdrum events of 2012 prequel Prometheus, this battle royale between humanity and cinema’s most perfect killing machine compounds artistic sins by hardwiring into our nostalgia for Scott’s other sci-fi masterpiece, Blade Runner.

Do androids dream of electric sheep? No, they fantasise about something far grander here – gods and acid-blooded monsters – evidenced by a quasi-philosophical and ponderous prologue that loudly trumpets a central motif: creation.

It’s a bitter irony, then, that Scott and his vast array of technical wizards spend the next two hours committing an act of plodding and ponderous recreation.

Covenant labours in the shadow of earlier films and has been crudely bolted together by screenwriters John Logan and Dante Harper with derivative action set-pieces that give birth to a new hybrid of extraterrestrial nasty – the neomorph – with translucent milky skin and a gait more akin to humans.

Or as one character pithily describes us: “a dying species, grasping for resurrection”.

The action initially unfolds on the Weyland-Yutani Corporation vessel Covenant, which is bound for a remote planet with 15 crew and 2,000 colonists in cryogenic stasis.

Synthetic android Walter (Michael Fassbender) keeps watch until a neutrino burst from a star causes a “destructive event” that prematurely wakes the crew including devoutly religious first mate Christopher Oram (Billy Crudup) and his biologist wife Karine (Carmen Ejogo), chief pilot Tennessee (Danny McBride), head of security

Lope (Demian Bichir) and the captain’s plucky wife, Daniels (Katherine Waterston).

They stumble upon a distress signal containing a snippet of John Denver’s classic Take Me Home, Country Roads, broadcast from a nearby planet that sensors reveal would make an idyllic new home.

“It’s too good to be true,” warns Daniels as a landing party prepares to investigate.

Alien: Covenant joins the dots to the original trilogy with strong echoes of Sigourney Weaver’s exploits as Ripley, meekly mimicked here by Waterston.

Jump-out-of-your-seat scares have been eradicated from the picture’s DNA and the script’s sleight of hand is clumsy.

In the year 2104, characters are evidently none the wiser about the tattered rules of surviving a horror film – don’t have sex, don’t wander off alone, don’t assume the killer is dead – and sign their death warrants with hilarious predictability.

Before Scott nestles in the director’s chair for another instalment, he should take heed of Daniels’ doom-laden words: “It’s a monumental risk not worth taking.”

HOME STYLE

With Lesley Taylor

It's time to bring tiles out of the bathroom and into the home

For too long bathrooms, kitchens and utility rooms have had the exclusive interior design rights to tiles. That rule gets erased today – you can forget practicality, tiles are a smoking hot trend for the modern home with their own unique design direction.

But how do you work tiles into every room? With a little imagination.

GO MINIMAL

Following on from the Danish-inspired Hygge trend, there is still a lot of love for the minimalist look – eradicating clutter to enhance the spaces in which we live.

Large format tiles are perfect for a minimalist-focused room, adding to the feeling of spaciousness.

For the most-committed of minimalist, use a large format tile that is suitable as both a wall and floor covering to create one continuous look from floor to ceiling.

FAKING IT

There can be no denying how amazing wooden floors look. But they are also expensive, and require ongoing maintenance – which again can cost a lot of money.

If you want the look of a real wooden floor, but none of the hassle, tiles are a great alternative.

From the distressed effect to classic parquet, whatever finish you are looking for, there is a tile to suit and best of all, it requires little ongoing maintenance and only modest outlay.

Large format tiles are ideal for a minimalist home

THE X TILES

CHIPPING AWAY

Chipboard is back. And it's seriously sexy. The modern age version has seen this material come of age and anyone looking to achieve a contemporary look throughout their home would do well to consider a chipboard-inspired tile.

Combining the industrial charm of exposed chipboard with the practicality of a porcelain tile, chipboard-inspired tiles are this summer's hottest wall and floor covering.

They are striking, attention-grabbing and speak volumes about the inhabitant's style.

If you're not bold enough to cover an entire room in a chipboard-inspired tile, use it to define a practical workspace in the home, or simply add texture and interest to a specific area.

TO BOLDLY GO

With the rise of bi-fold doors, our outdoor spaces really are becoming an integral part of the family home.

And thanks to huge advances with baked porcelain tiles, you can enjoy continuous flooring from your home to your garden using the same floor tile.

If you're happy with carpet indoors but want decking with a difference, again a porcelain tile makes a really great choice.

You can choose to replicate decking with a wood-inspired tile – without the need to apply decking stain or worry about the sun bleaching the wood – or even a tile with a subtle pattern similar to those found on a kitchen floor.

THE NEW FEATURE WALL

It's been more than a decade since feature walls first worked their way into our homes and hearts – now, they're well overdue a revamp.

The feature wall of 2017 is very much about texture, depth and a material difference – something that you simply can't perfect when armed with only a roll of wallpaper and some adhesive. For this, there is tiling.

Current favourite combinations include high-shine brick-style ceramic tiles in on-trend grey; and if that's not attention-grabbing enough, there's now grout in every colour of the rainbow, including shimmering golds, silvers and blacks.

Now tiles have well and truly broken out of their traditional realms, our homes may never be the same again.

The versatility of effects, prints and materials tiling provides opens up a Pandora's box for interior designers – just what may come over the course of the next 12 months is anyone's guess. Exciting times indeed.

LESLEY'S TOP TIPS FOR USING TILES IN NON-TRADITIONAL ROOMS

1. Start small with a tiled feature wall.
2. Always check the product specification for any specific restrictions on your chosen tiles.
3. Unless you are an amazing DIY-er, get a professional in to

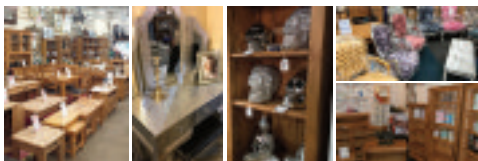

4. lay your new tiles for you.
5. Be prepared for a small amount of maintenance, such as a quick clean, to keep your new tiles in top condition.
6. If laying tiles outside, try to source some with an anti-slip finish.

Acres of space and privacy

A JOLIE LITTLE PLACE FOR AN A-LISTER

Despite a new role as visiting professor at the London School of Economics teaching a course on the impact of war on women, Hollywood actor and director Angelina Jolie has opted to set up home in Hollywood rather than London.

She evidently wants to stay on good terms with her ex, Brad Pitt, who lives in LA, after reaching an agreement to resolve their divorce and custody dispute in private. Jolie and Pitt have already started putting their homes up for sale, including a French chateau and New Orleans mansion. Now, she's forked out $25m for a super-swanky property in the gated Laughlin Park, where other A-listers such as Natalie Portman and Casey Affleck have homes.

Set in 2.1 acres, the six-bedroom pad should be big enough for Jolie and her six children Maddox, Zahara, Pax, Shiloh, Knox and Vivienne.

The new house even has film star pedigree as it's the former address of legendary movie maker Cecil B. DeMille, who produced and directed dozens of movies including The Ten Commandments. He entertained heads of state, industry leaders and military heroes at the house, which was also the setting for publicity photos of young actresses. Charlton Heston even visited every Sunday for a year to be coached for his role of Moses.

The mansion has a curved stairway in the foyer, formal living room with fireplace, mahogany-panelled dining room, library with floor-to-ceiling book shelves, and outdoor pool.

THE DEVIL'S IN THE DETAIL

Author Fay Weldon upset some of her loyal readers by claiming that the feminist revolution had halved men's wages and by attacking the 'bad' women who've accused Donald Trump of sexual harassment.

She also stirred up some ill feeling by declaring that transgender men can never become women and included the theme in a belated sequel to her best-known novel, the Life And Loves Of A She Devil, where one of the characters undergoes a sex-change operation.

Fay started out as one of the team behind the advertising slogan 'Go to work on an egg', wrote the first episode of TV series Upstairs, Downstairs in 1971 and then became an author with the Life and Loves of a She Devil. Within it she created one of literature's greatest female monsters in Ruth.

Deserted by callous husband Bobbo for the simpering romance novelist Mary Fisher, the ugly doormat remakes herself as the She Devil and has her revenge on the adulterers. The award-winning TV version of her book, starring Patricia Hodge and Dennis Waterman, had the nation gripped when it was first broadcast in 1986. One of the frightening scenes took place in the drawing room of The East House in the village of Longworth near Oxford.

On the market for £995,000, the four-bedroom property is a wing of what was formerly Longworth House, built in the 1600s, which later became a hospital before being redeveloped in the 1980s.

The large drawing room has high ceilings and a bay with doors opening onto the terrace and gardens. There's also an open fireplace with ornate carved mantel piece.

Vivien Leigh was an unknown English actress when she secured a part in the 1939 classic Gone with the Wind, beating every leading lady in Hollywood to the role of Scarlett O'Hara. And she justified the casting by becoming the first British woman to win an Oscar for Best Actress. Scarlett's infidelity mirrored that of Leigh's real life; she stole Laurence Olivier from his wife Jill Esmond, leaving her husband Leigh Holman, with whom she had a daughter, Suzanne, to become the actor's mistress and then second wife.

After their divorce, Vivien Leigh and Holman remained good friends and in 1959 - nearly 20 years after Leigh had

The Queen has endured so many portrait sittings, it's hardly surprising that during one tedious appointment she asked the painter to re-position a TV aerial so she could watch the horse-racing.

Royal portrait artist Bernard Hailstone was happy to oblige and enjoyed many other encounters with famous sitters including former US president Jimmy Carter, whom he sketched during a flight from London to New York. The artist even discussed aliens with Winston Churchill at Chartwell in Kent - the last officially commissioned portrait of the war-time PM.

Hailstone, who Prince Charles dubbed 'the fastest brush alive', produced hundreds of

YOUR GARDEN

With Diarmuid Gavin

My trip to Holland has inspired me to be far bolder with colours in the future

Dutch courage

The Netherlands produces almost 2,000 different cultivars of tulips annually

This week I went to visit a world-famous flower show. While London hosts the most famous of all flower shows in a fortnight's time, Holland hosts an annual extravaganza which starts every year in March and finishes the third week of May – just as the Chelsea Flower Show opens its doors.

The place is Keukenhof, about a 45-minute drive from Amsterdam, and it's mainly a celebration of a single species – the tulip.

The Netherlands is the world's largest producer of tulip bulbs, providing an annual 4.2 billion.

Almost 2,000 different cultivars are cultivated commercially, and approximately 100 new cultivars are added annually. Keukenhof is a showcase for all of this.

Now in its 68th year, the parkland is host to seven million spring flower bulbs with more than 800 varieties of tulips. Keukenhof, meaning kitchen garden, dates back to the 15th century when Countess Jacqueline of Bavaria used to gather fruit and veg from the surrounds for the kitchen of the castle. The castle gardens were redesigned in 1857 in the English landscape style and this forms the basis of the park today.

I couldn't have picked a busier day to visit. It was a bank holiday weekend, the sun was shining and tens of thousands of others had the same idea. But with typical Dutch efficiency, everything from parking, to the quest for entry, waffles and coffee was easily negotiated.

The park is a nice size for a day out. Rectangular in shape, and handy fold-out maps are freely available. The setting is picturesque... beautifully planned formal gardens leading to hilly landscaped zones (unusual in Holland), with water in the form of canals, streams and lakes everywhere.

Central to proceedings is a huge exhibition and sales greenhouse called the Willem-Alexander (many of the destinations are named after members of the Royal Family).

It was thronged with tourists admiring floral art demonstrations and people buying tulip memorabilia.

I rushed through, anxious to take in as many vistas and views as possible.

Initially sceptical, I was soon overcome with the excitement of vast swathes of tulips of every kind set out in ordered beds or gently meandering rows.

There are open areas, waterside landscapes, woodland vistas and arrangements of tulips made to look like a Mondrian painting.

Critical mode went out of the window, lost to the overwhelming sensory experience – colours of every hue used singly or in intoxicating mixes. Floral scent hung heavily in the air but most of all it was the look of awe on visitors' faces and their smiles which remained the lasting impression. Every view is a "Kodak moment" – selfie sticks abound.

So what can we learn from this? It's all about bold use of colour. This can be as simple as using one colour in a bold sweep or mixing up lots of colours to create a joyful cacophony.

I loved the perfect curving lines of contrasting colours – like the wonderful orange fritillaries under-planted with deep purple tulips, the rows of zingy orange and white tulips, and the rivers of blue muscari alongside creamy white tulips.

Equally beautiful was the scheme that used complementary colours blending happily in sequence – purple to deep pink to pale pink to red.

The planners here love colour and they aren't afraid to have fun with it, creating exuberant, cheerful designs. I'm inspired and hope you are too for when you're planting up your borders for next spring's display.

For more on visiting the gardens at Keukenhof, go to keukenhof.nl. Entrance costs €16 (£13.50).

A THEY are available from a number of companies such as Mr Fothergills, Plant World Seeds, Thompson and Morgan, Suttons, and Chiltern Seeds.

Seeds need to be sown January to April and they require a period of three weeks chilling to aid germination. So as it's too late to sow for this year you might consider getting some plug plants which will be available to plant outside towards the end of the month.

PLANT OF THE WEEK

AESCULUS HIPPOCASTANUM

THE horse chestnut is one of the most easily recognisable trees, particularly during these months when it's covered in spikes of creamy blossoms.

Try to get a closer look if you can as they are really wonderful blooms, frilly cream with flushed pink throats which form pyramid-like candles all over the tree. Although it's not a native, our bees enjoy the sweet nectar.

Stand beneath and gaze up at the parasol-like arrangements of leaves. In autumn, the tree delights again with its conker bounty.

In winter, examine a twig for leaf scars - where the leaf has detached from the branch - and you will see perfectly formed horseshoe-shaped scars, complete with nail markings! Perhaps this is where it gets its name.

YOUR STARS WITH
ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20
I can see that many of the signs are talking for the sake of it this week and you could end up having to cover for someone who is not as innocent as they first claimed to be. Just make sure you know how far is too far to go when covering up for close ones. Ask yourself if those concerned would do the same for you. Ring now to hear how Saturn promises renewed financial opportunities for you.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 300 65p PER MINUTE

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21
Can you feel the air of change in your stars Taurus? I can and I know that if you allow yourself to feel your way through the events ahead, then you'll be able to cope with and succeed in anything. Someone who was once a part of your past wants to be a part of your future. The question is, do you want them to be? Ring now so I can give you the self assurance to trust your own decisions.

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21
The temptation is strong to say the very things you shouldn't. You no longer think what if you think when and how. This is a really good week to try for the things you were lacking confidence in earlier in the year. Dream big Gemini. The stars and your close ones are behind you. Ring now to hear why it's worth turning up early to all meetings in the days ahead.

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22
Your story is reading like a novel lately. Make sure it's one that you are writing and that you're not allowing other people's dreams and wishes to rewrite what should essentially be your story. A break in your inner circle brings shock and surprise, and in a strange way, offers you a sense of freedom. Ring now so we can ensure you make your life the very best it can be.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 303 65p PER MINUTE

LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 23
I know you want to move forward Leo, but how can you do that without putting the past behind you? Use this week to tie up loose ends and to lay ghosts to rest once and for all. You are the master of your own destiny, but you must still acknowledge that there is an other way the way things must be done. Call now to hear why it's worth taking gambles in love.

VIRGO AUGUST 24 - SEPTEMBER 22
There is a really fun feel to your chart, where you can at last blow off some steam. Previously you had to be those others wanted you to be. The restaurant you had to show has been harder for you than those ones realised. This is your time now. Embrace it, and keep eyes open on the future to keep a new character as interested as you want them to be. Ring now for the full story.

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23
See you've gone out of your way to support those you love. However, they only seem to have taken note of what you haven't done, rather than what you have. This week you get the chance to find middle ground. It will however mean neither of you bringing up the past. News of new beginnings are giving you creates new hope. Call to hear why Scorpio play a key role in your future.

SCORPIO OCTOBER 24 - NOVEMBER 21
Your ruling planet Mars has made it more difficult than you had hoped to get things back to normal. What you see this week that you couldn't see before, is that you needed to have everything stripped back bare to appreciate all you had and lost. Eat that humble pie with a smile. It's taking you to a good place. Ring now so we can talk about family differences.

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 - DECEMBER 20
Before you start sticking up for close ones, try to find out the whole story. You may not have all the facts. Those you love are very good at pulling the wool over your eyes but, then again, they do say that love is blind! Fellow Sagittarians are worth joining forces with on both a personal and a professional level. Ring now to hear why this is the perfect week to sign important contracts.

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 21 - JANUARY 20
You have money on your mind and dreams in your heart. The question I have Capricorn is can those who made the promises really come up with the goods? You'll know by the end of this week. If the answer is no, then make sure you put a distance between you and anyone who has made false promises. Ring now to hear why this is the perfect week to sign important contracts.

AQUARIUS JANUARY 21 - FEBRUARY 19
Don't regret what you've done. You have so many dreams that you can afford to put what hasn't worked behind you and instead focus on what can be achieved. A friendship which had lapsed is heading back into your life with enough contacts to make a better year ahead, full of opportunities for you to enjoy. Ring now to hear why it's imperative to pay debts this week.

PISCES FEBRUARY 20 - MARCH 20
This is a great week to break any bad habits you've adopted. You should have learned by now that yours is a sign which is prone to giving their whole life to anything they are involved in. That's why you need to use the determined aspects from Mars to break away from what's not working and to focus on what can and will. Ring now to hear how travelling for love makes the impossible possible.

Harlow Volleyball Club teams net cup double

HARLOW Volleyball Club rounded off an incredibly successful season by pulling off a cup double.

Both the men's and ladies teams were competing in the finals of the Essex Volleyball Cup, and the Passmores School-based sides returned home triumphant.

The men's team were in action in Southend, and were pitted against Exiles, Chelmsford, Polska and the hosts, comfortably winning all the games without dropping a set to take the honours.

It was the same story for the ladies during their tournament in Chelmsford, beating off opposition from the hosts, Exiles, Brentwood and Southend to lift the trophy.

Coach Ilija Kalanov was understandably proud of his teams. "We didn't give the opposition a chance," he said. "From the very first moments of both tournaments we showed that we are here to win."

"We played high quality volleyball and I am very optimistic for the next season."

"It was a real joy to finish the season in style, and I would also like to thank our sponsors ABC Cars of Harlow."

Squads, men: Luca Battista, Kamen Dimitrov, Lukas Babak, Czarek Potentias, Linards Silins and Michael Muravcik.

Ladies: Beatrice Sukackaite, Alexandra Lukac, Malgorzata Machocka, Danielle Ferguson, Marcia Santos and Zonnie Del Los Reyes.

Clubhouse opening is left in safe hands

Essex wicketkeeper helps to mark facility's launch

ESSEX wicketkeeper James Foster provided the star turn as he officially opened Harlow Cricket Club's new clubhouse.

Harlow president Alan Howick was beaming with pride as the ribbon was cut, to signify the culmination of a decade of hard work at the Chippingfield-based club.

Those attending the event included Harlow MP Robert Halfon, Sue Livings of Harlow Council and Nick Boulter from Sport England, who provided £500,000 of support for the new facility.

Youngsters from Fawbert and Barnard's Primary School were also on hand to have a cricket coaching demonstration.

Foster said he was very impressed with the new clubhouse and ground, but jokingly declined an invitation to sign up for Harlow's first team.

"This is the combination of ten years hard work from start to finish to provide an outstanding cricket and community facility for the people of Old Harlow and cricket in general," said Howick.

"It's a massive facility for a club that starting playing cricket in 1774 making it one of the oldest clubs in England."

First to make use of the new clubhouse were Harlow's fifth team, who opened their Herts and Essex Cricket League, Division Five campaign with an emphatic 43 run victory over Tye Green.

Harlow won the toss and decided to bat first. This proved to be a brilliant decision as openers Jack Sykes and Ben Yeats dispatched any loose bowling to the boundary with ease.

Sykes scored a whirlwind 185 from 144 balls, including 32 fours and one six.

Fourteen-year-old Yeats was also a centurion, racing to a run a ball 118 including 14 fours and one maximum as Harlow amassed a total of 327-4 from their 45 overs.

In reply, Tye Green made a strong start, but Harlow stuck to their guns and tactics, restricting the visitors to below the required run rate.

All of the bowlers made good contributions, with Nathan McCarthy making the crucial breakthroughs.

He finished with 2-66 from 10 overs, while Matt Hart was extremely economical with his five overs going for just 11 runs.

Harlow shared the wickets around, and Tye Green eventually finished well short on 284-7 from their allotted overs.

■ MATCHING Green opened the defence of their Herts and Essex Cricket League Division One title with a convincing five-wicket win over Stansted.

Brothers Jonny and Matty Taylor opened the bowling for the Green, and a solid spell saw them peg Stansted back to 38-2 off 14 overs.

Simon Hartnell (4-24) and Paul Dawson (2-18) continued the good work, keeping a tight grip on the game, with Dan Sibley (2-23) also chipping in.

Stansted were bowled out for 105 after just 36.3 off their allotted 45 overs.

Stansted's Ben Baker and Matty Abbotson made life difficult for the Matching batsmen as they limped to 70-5.

But once Dan Sibley (34 not out) and Hartnell (19 not out) came together at the crease, they knocked off the required runs at more than a run a ball.
